

All Is Enlinked

Like attracts like and all is alike on our planet

All is connected in the rhythm of habit

The forests on our planet are like the hair on our head

All that exists, living or dead, wishes to be led.

The rocks and stones are like our skulls and bones

The rivers are designed like the nerves and veins

The chaotic cities are the neural circuitry in our brains

The one who can see this is the one who attains.

The one who can manipulate is the one who remains

The one who stays indivisible explains

How it all connects, unites and maintains

And one who listens to him finally unchains.

Fofiq Muscin-zadeh

2016